THE STATE BUILDINGS.

At the World's Fair at St. Louis, Mo.

IS AN IDEAL LOCATION

For Pennsylvania's State Building—Old Historic Buildings Re-Produced —The Philippine Exhibit.

THE RED MAN AT THE FAIR

(Special Correspondence.

The World's Fair State buildings stand on a wooded prominence to the left of the cascades, the locations are ideal, and Pennsylvania has chosen one of the finest for the building that represents her as a state. The building is a large one and each room is nicely, and many of them elegantly furnished. Added to the beauty of the building, and making it more interesting is the presence of that dear, old bell that rang out our freedom so many years ago, it is at present in the vestibule of the building and is guarded by four large policemen from the city of Philadelphia. On the day it reached the Fair the school-children of St. Louis were admitted to the grounds free of charge, and stood for hours patiently waiting for their first sight of the Liberty Bell. When it finally appeared, it was worth going miles to hear the shout that went up from those thousands of children who stood on tiptoe to catch a glimpse of that loved piece of metal. The bell will remain in the building until the close of the Exposition.

Almost all of the states are represented, some of the buildings being reproductions of famous ones. Oregon has reproduced Fort Clatsop which was built by Lewis and Clark while on their famous expedition in the north-west. Mississippi has Beauvoir, the old home of Jefferson Davis. New Jersey has a house once used by George Washington as his head-quarters. Texas has built hers in the shape of a five-pointed star. Missouri, as hostess of the world, has the finest and most beautiful building. All the other state buildings are well furnished and contain many objects of interest.

The different nations have reproduced some of their most interesting buildings. France has for hers, the Grand Trianon of Versailes. England has Kew Gardens. Germany reproduced the Castle of Charlottenberg. China has the home of Prince Pu hun, at present it is impossible to go through this building without a pass.

The Philippine exhibit which cost $1,200,000 lies just back of the Palace of Agriculture. Here in the different villages, are to be seen the native dress and customs of the Philippines. It is well to remember that no one should try to use a camera in the Morro village. Signs are placed all over the grounds, warning the people that they do so at their peril, as a result of a photographer was almost killed by the savage tribe who despise the sight of a camera.

The Philippine soldiers are also quartered here, and they make a fine appearance in their U. S. Soldiers costumes.

The Red Man is at the Fair in all his glory of paint and feathers. The Indian school is near station No. 7 of the Intramural railroad, and not far from the Philippine villages. In this school one may see on one hand, the savages with their rude workmanship, and on the other their children educated in American schools and dressed as civilized children and doing such beautiful work as may well put to shame many Americans with greater advantages.

As the Red man wanders over the grounds gazing with wondering eyes at all the beauties before him, he seems to realize that the old reign in which he was king has passed away forever, and to him all things have become new and strange.

Died at Altoona.

Grace Florence Way, daughter of Harry and Jennie Way, at the parents' home, 412 Willow avenue, Altoona, at 6 o'clock Friday evening. Scarlet fever was the cause of death. She was aged 7 years, 6 months and 17 days. Private interment were made in Fairview cemetery Saturday afternoon at 3.

CUT THE WIRES!

Thomas McCafferty and Telephone Co. Have a Little Setto.

For some time past Thomas McCafferty, a respected citizen of the West ward, and the Central Pennsylvania Telephone Co., have been having a dispute over the location of some telephone wires. It seems that the wires leading down North Potter street toward the Pennsylvania freight station pass over the roof of the house in which Mr. McCafferty lives. He is the agent for this block of houses, they being the property of his nephew. Acting as agent he notified the company to remove the wires but they refused to do so. He gave them certain time to take them away and as they did not do so he climbed upon his roof and with a bolt cutter he cut the wires. This was several weeks ago. Twice he cut the wires leading over his roof and each time the company replaced them in the same place as they were before. Wednesday evening about 6 o'clock he cut them for the third time.

Thursday morning at 8 o'clock Manager Leas, R. B. Tate and Charles Donachy went to work to replace the wires. Mr. McCafferty mounted to the roof of his house armed with his bolt cutter and warned them that he would again cut the wires. Things began to look troublesome and quite a crowd gathered to see the result. Nothing sensational however happened as the telephone men strung the lines so far out from the house that Mr. McCafferty could not reach them. The wires do not pass over his house roof now, but pass over the side walk. There is a telephone post at the corner of the alleyway next to Mr. McCafferty's property and he threatens to dynamite it, if it is not removed in short order.

Later in the morning McCafferty cut several wires passing over his property on the pike near the lime kilns. He claims to have the law on his side and cites several decisions of the Supreme Court as his authority. He does not blame Manager Leas or his men as he says they are only doing as directed and have treated him very courteously.

Manager Leas claims that the wires now are on the highway and do not pass over McCafferty's property. He says the pole which McCafferty threatens to cut down is on a street that has been opened for 21 years.

Mr. McCafferty says the wires attract lightning and that is his reason for wanting them removed from close proximity to his premises.

Laying of the Cornerstone of New Lock Haven Catholic Church.

The cornerstone of the new Church of the Immaculate Conception on West Water street Lock Haven was laid Sunday afternoon in the presence of a large audience. The hour for laying of the stone was 3 o'clock and the services began promptly on time. Rt. Rev. E. A. Garvey, bishop of Altoona, officiated, assisted by Fathers McArdle, of Bellefonte, Bustian, of Jersey Shore, Costello, of Williamsport, Reudter, of New Oxford, O'Donnell, of Renovo, Mauchter, of Lock Haven, and Rev. J. N. Codori, pastor of the church. A choir of mixed voices sang several selections appropriate to the occasion.

The corner stone is a massive block of brown stone weighing upwards of a ton and in it was placed a copper box. The box contains a historical sketch giving the names of all former priests of the Immaculate Conception church and a brief biographical sketch of each and a review of his pastoral work; the names of all who paid the contribution promised for the new church, the names of the present reigning pope, president of the United States and present governor of the state of Pennsylvania, the names of the present president judge and associates judges, names of present mayor and councilmen of the city of Lock Haven, names of the officers of the Altooona diocese, copies of the Lock Haven papers, Catholic Standard, The Pittsburg Catholic, Pittsburg Observer and Sacred Heart and Review published at Boston, prayer book, crucifix and rosary beads.

After the ceremony of laying the cornerstone was over, Bishop Garvey delivered an address to the large congregation, which was listened to closely by all. Bishop Garvey is an able and eloquent speaker and his address was very interesting. A large number of persons from Renovo, Bellefonte, Jersey Shore and Williamsport were present to witness the interesting ceremony.

The new church, when completed, will be the finest in Lock Haven and it is stated that with one exception it will be the finest Catholic church in the Altoona diocese.

MERRY JUNE WEDDINGS.

Nuptial Events of Recent Occurrence.

MANY NEW FAMILIES

That Have Been Started on the Sea of Matrimony Within the Past Week.

SOME PEOPLE YOU MAY KNOW

SMITH—SANDERSON.

June wedding bells pealed forth merrily, as it were, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Klise, East Bald Eagle street, Lock Haven Thursday evening, when at 8 o'clock Mr. Klise's niece, Miss Elizabeth Adele Smith, became the wife of Frank Malone Sanderson. Rev. J. H. Weber, D. D., of Sunbury, performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by about 75 invited guests. The bridesmaid was Miss Blanche Estelle Troxell, of Sunbury, and the groomsman was Dr. Saylor J. McGhee, of Mill Hall. The wedding party entered the parlor to the strains of the wedding march as played by Mrs. Klise. The decorations consisted of palms, smilax and laurel. The bride was handsomely gowned in white French mulle, with lace trimmings. She carried bride roses. The brides-maid was attired in pink silk mulle and carried pink carnations. At the conclusion of the ceremony which bound the two young hearts for life in the bonds of love, the young couple's many friends present extended hearty well wishes. All were then served with excellent refreshments by Caterer Marshall.

The guests then whiled away an hour or more in pleasant social intercourse, while the Park Concert band arrived on the scene and tendered the couple the compliments of a delightful serenade. The late train carried Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson to the east on a wedding tour, which will include Philadelphia, Atlantic City and other cities.

The bride is a popular young lady who is well and most favorably known by many people. For some time past she has been one of the corps of obliging salesladies in the dry goods emporium of W. A. Flack & Son. Her happiness on this occasion was heightened by the many sincere tokens of esteem and affection she received from friends in the way of handsome and costly presents.

The groom is an energetic young business man, who is connected with his father, Captain William H. Sanderson, in conducting the old-established Sanderson flouring mill.

Among the out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were Mrs. Della Brungard, Lewisburg; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Malone, Germantown; the Misses Sarah and Margaret Potter, Bellefonte; Mrs. Lou Haas, Sunbury; Mr. and Mrs. Wagner, Antes Fort; Frank W. Smith, Conneaut, O; Mr. and Mrs. George Haines, Rebersburg; Miss Edna Ricker, Nittany Valley; Mrs. P. E. Fitzgerald, North Bend; Edwin S. Furst, Cedar Springs.—Lock Haven Democrat.

MILLER—MOORE.

The wedding of Miss Maud Moore to Mr. James Gelwix Miller, of York, which was celebrated in the Presbyterian church at Lemont, Wednesday evening, at 6 o'clock, was the most notable nuptial event that has taked place there in many years.

The church was beautifully decorated for the ceremony and crowded with guests. Mrs. Wm. Thompson played the wedding march while the bridal party proceeded down the aisle to the chancel where the Rev. Walter Harnish was waiting to officiate the bride was given away by her brother Robert Moore, of Philipsburg. She was attended by Miss Bess Thompson, of Lemont, as maid of honor, with four other maids and her little niece Margaret Moore, of Philipsburg, bearing the ring on a silver salver. The groom was attended by his best man, Mr McLaughlin, of Pittsburg. There were four ushers.

Immediately after the ceremony a large reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ellen Moore, and later the bride and groom were driven to Bellefonte, where they took a night train for their honeymoon.

Mrs. Miller is quite an accomplished woman. She is a graduate of the Pennsylvania State College and in recent years has become quite prominent among the workers in educational lines in the State. Her husband is an instructor at the Mountain Seminary, Birmingham, where they expect to make their home.

REESE—MCNAMARA

At noon Tuesday, June 21st, a pretty and stylish wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Reese, at Port Matilda, when their daughter Ola was married to Mr. John McNamara, of Rossiter, Pa. A hundred invited guests assembled in the parlor, which was artistically decorated with palms, ferns, and the finest of flowers.

To the sound of the wedding march skillfully played by Miss Edith Williams, of Port Matilda, the bride maids, Miss Kathryn Reese, a sister of the bride, Miss Rose Hoover, of Fillmore; Misses Martha Hoover, and Martha Eastman, of Dubois, Pa., all cousins of the bride, entered the parlor. They were gowned in pink mouseline made entraine and each carried a bouquet of white roses. Next came the matron of honor, Mrs. J. M. Williams, sister of the bride. She wore a handsome gown of blue silk gauze over white, and carried a bouquet of orange blossoms. Following came the bride, carrying a shower bouquet of bride's roses, leaning on the arm of her father. She wore a beautiful gown of white Paris muslin and embroidered chiffon and a veil fastened with orange blossoms. They were met at the altar by the groom, attended by his groomsman, Mr. Clay Straw, of Gazzam, Pa. Rev. S. S. Bergen, of the Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony.

After congratulations the bridal couple and guests sat down to a sumptuous feast which had been prepared and to which all did justice. Mr. and Mrs. McNamara left on the 1:40 train on a tour of eastern cities, including Baltimore and Washington, amid a perfect shower of rice, shoes, baby carriages and go-carts. They will reside in their own home at Rossiter, Pa. where the groom has a lucrative position as book-keeper for the Clearfield Bituminous Coal Co.

The guests from out of town were: Misses Annie McDivitt and Bertha Chapped, of Rossiter; Mrs. Martha Eastman, Phillis Esterline Bergen and Louis Esterline, of DuBois; Mr. Harry Bergen Hoover, of Lock Haven; Mr. and Mrs. Grant Hoover, of Bellefonte; Miss Pauline Smith, of Unionville; and Mrs. Geo, W. Twitmyer, of Wilmington.

It was a pretty wedding and we hope that the mirth and glee that attended it may become a legacy which will remain with the bride and groom through life. The presents were many, handsome, and most of them valuable.

A special meeting of the Borough council was held Wednesday evening commencing at 7:30. All the members were present except Keller.

The ordinance regulating the entire Water Department which has been under consideration for the past year was passed last night after an exhaustive discussion lasting until 11 o'clock. The ordinance is quite lengthy and fixes a scale for all water charges.

The date for holding the water appeals was fixed for July 7.

The new water wheel and pump installed at the old Water Works by J. H. Lingle was accepted and his bill for same paid.

The water ordinance having passed council does not make it a law until it is signed by the Burgess. We do not know whether Burgess Walker will sign or veto it.

P. B. Crider Has a Serious Fall.

The venerable Philip B. Crider is lying in a critical condition at his home on West Linn street as the result of a fall. His son, F. W. Crider and wife were on their way home from California and did not reach here until Saturday and the only members of the family home were Miss May Crider and her sister, Mary. Thursday morning Miss Crider heard a pet belonging to the house barking quite furiously at her Grand-father's door. The dog was much excited and refused to be quieted. On trying the door she found it locked but there was another door to the room which was open and on entering the room she found her grandfather lying on the floor partly dressed and in an unconscious condition. She at once sent for medical aid and an examination showed Mr. Crider to be suffering from concussion of the brain resulting from his fall.

—The large building occupied by Platt-Barber & Co, and the Shirt Factory is being repainted by Mr. John Noll and a crew of men from Pleasant Gap. When finished the building will make a fine appearance.

A RECORD OF DEATHS!

Those Who Have Passed Into the Great Beyond.

DURING THE WEEK

Vacant Chairs in Several Homes---Loved Ones Who Have Gone to Join the Great Majority.

BRIEF SKETCHES OF THE DECEASED.

WILLIAM G. LORAINE GRUBB.

That death regards not age is evident in the death of William Grubb June 20th, 1904, at the age of 20 years, 6 months and 19 days. He passed away at the home of his father in Clearfield. He is survived by a wife, his father, J. V. Grubb, three brothers, C. E. of McKeesport, Clarence and Calvin, at home; also by three sisters, Carrie and Florence at home, and Alice at McKeesport. He was a christian young man and had been for several years a member of the Milesburg Baptist church, at which place they formerly lived. The body was brought to Milesburg on last Thursday, where services were held in the Baptist church conducted by the pastor Rev. Lathrop. The deceased was active in religious work being a member of the Y. M. C. A. and Gospel Workers of Tyrone where he lived. He was also an active member of the O. U. A. M. An escort of twenty-five members of this order accompanied his remains to the depot in Clearfield, and the order of Milesburg attended the services and bore the body to its last resting place in the Messiah cemetery.

DAVID KELLER.

David Keller, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Boalsburg, died Monday June 27, at the home of his son-in-law, Owen Mothersbaugh, at Boalsburg.

He was born in Boalsburg and his long life of 87 years duration has been spent there. He engaged in farming and was quite successful in his chosen occupation. His death was due to paralysis from which he had been suffering for a period of one year.

He is survived by his widow and the following children: William, of Lemont; George, of Houserville; Ephriam, of Pleasant Gap; Dr. U. G. of Warren, Ill., and Mrs. Lizzie Mothersbaugh, of Boalsburg, with whom he made his home.

The funeral will be from the house Friday morning at 9:30 and later services will be held in St. John's Reformed church of which deceased was a consistent member. Rev. A. A. Black will officiate. Interment in the Boalsburg cemetery.

JOSEPH OSCAR SHANK.

Joseph Oscar Shank, a well known citizen of Snow Shoe, died at his home in that place Sunday morning of typhoid fever after a ten day's illness.

Deceased was born in Milesburg May 16, 1855, and was 49 years of age. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Almira Shank and the following children: Boyd E., Arthur D., Lawrence G., Raymond C., and Oscar T. The funeral services were held Thursday afternoon and was conducted by Rev. H. J. Schucharts the Methodist minister at Snow Shoe.

He was a member of the Tyrone Lodge No. 408, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen also of the Pennsylvania Railroad Volunteer Relief Department. He has been in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad since 1889, his present position being that of a flagman.

MRS. MARY E. SWARTSWORTH.

Mrs. Mary E. Swartsworth, wife of Richard Swartsworth, of Altoona, died Thursday night, at 10:45, after an illness of 2 months, of diabetes. The deceased was born at Philipsburg, Centre county, 46 years ago. She resided in this city for about 22 years. Besides her husband she is survived by two sons, Alexander, of Pittsburg, and Edward, of this city; also by the following brothers and sisters: Howard Everetts, of Pittsburg: William, of Michigan; Miss Jennie Everetts, of Kittanning Point; Mrs. C. Dugan, of Woodland, Clearfield county. She was a member of the Calvary Baptist church. The funeral took place Saturday afternoon at 3. Interment in Oak Ridge cemetery.—Altoona Tribune.

A CHANGE AT NITTANY FURNACE.

Noah H. Swayne Succeeds J. W. Gephart as President of Nittany Iron Co.

A special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Nittany Iron Co. was held at the Company's office in Temple Court Friday making several changes in officers. J. W. Gephart, who has been president since the organization of the Company, tendered his resignation and requested its acceptance as he is desirous of being relieved of some of the business cares and responsibilities and secure an opportunity for recuperating his health. He will however remain connected with the management and Board of Directors. The resignation was accepted and Mr. Noah H. Swayne 2d. of Cedartown, Ga. was elected to succeed Mr. Gephart. Mr. Swayne is a practical iron man and has for some years been connected as President and General Manager of the Alabama and Georgia Iron Co.

He expects to move here with his family shortly and will probably occupy the furnace mansion house recently vacated by Mr. Clemson. The furnace will probably bank or close down for a month or two to await market conditions and make some slight repairs, but is expected to be back in blast within two months.

Mr. Gephart expects to take about a months complete rest and after that return to push the repairs at Bellefonte Furnace and devote his time to the other interests he is identified with.

Mr. Swayne comes here highly recommended both as a good citizen and sound business man. We welcome him to Bellefonte hoping his stay may be one of pleasure and profit both to himself and family and to the town of his adoption.

Mr. Swayne is stopping at the Brockerhoff House for the present but early next week will leave for the south to attend to some business matters down there and superintend the packing and moving of his household goods to this place.

Mr. Gephart will soon leave for Magnolia, a beautiful resort on the New England coast, near Manchester-by-the sea, where he expects to enjoy a months complete rest.

The above facts will set at rest the many sensational rumors afloat in regard to the forming of a syndicate to run the furnaces etc., which were without the least foundation. The Republican can be depended upon to give reliable news in regard to this, Bellefonte's biggest industrial enterprise, whenever there is anything for publication.

The Deadly Toy Pistol and Giant Fire Crackers.

The state board of health is urging upon the mayors of all cities and towns the need of enforcing the laws relative to the sale of toy pistols and high explosives for the protection of life and limb.

Burgess Walker has received a copy of the state board of health circular. Last year there was an epidemic of tetanus or lockjaw following the Fourth of July, worse than in any other state in the union. There were 82 cases reported in Pennsylvania, all of which proved fatal but two.

The instrument invariably responsible for the injury is the ordinary cheap 22—calibre blank cartridge pistol. However, all cases are not due to the toy pistol alone. Ten per cent. are found to be due to other agents used. Of these the giant exploding cracker takes first place.

Startling as the statement may appear the state board asserts that the recorded number of casualties in the United States resulting from the use of toy pistols, giant crackers and other high explosives on the last Fourth of July was as great as the losses sustained by the Russian forces in the recent two days battle with the Japanese at Maicheng.

The Cost of a Special Session.

If Governor Pennypacker had called a special session of the Legislature to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Quay, said session if it lasted but one day would cost the state $200,000. Each member under the law, is entitled to $500 and mileage for attending a special session. The salaries of the 254 members would be $127,000 and the mileage would be about $15,000 additional. Salaries of officials and other expenses would bring the cost of the session up to if not more than $200,000.

—No need to fear sudden attacks of cholera infantum, dysentery, diarrhoea, or summer complaint, if you have Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the medicine chest.

The hired man will always do best when his boss sets him a good example.

It takes ginseng seed eighteen months to germinate, while purslane and foxtail require only about that many hours.

The law will not let you turn the water from your farm on to your neighbor to his injury save as it flows down a natural water course over his land.

Brome grass, speltz, macaroni wheat and alfalfa are four things which are adding millions of acres of tillable land to the arable acreage of the semiarid west.

We never see a clipped horse in early spring but we are reminded of the cruelty of such a fad. No artificial method of protection can take the place of the winter coat nature provides.

In certain parts of Africa, where the grasshoppers have made a clean sweep of the country, the only things in the way of vegetation left are the leaves of the coffee trees. These they would not eat, while they even ate the bark of other trees.

Two South Dakota boys have invented a method of exterminating prairie dogs which they have patented and which is such a pronounced success that it is said that the boys will make a fortune out of it.

One very pleasing feature of the present spring is the reappearance of the bluebirds in large numbers. For several years they entirely disappeared, and we thought we had entirely lost this most cheery harbinger of spring, but here he is back again, ready to go to housekeeping as of old in the box you have prepared for him.

We think that the owner of the sandy farm is more to be pitied than any other farmer. The wind whips his fields, in a dry season he can raise nothing and in a wet one his fertilizers are leached away and largely lost. We could stand a hilly farm, a flat and wet one, a stiff clay and quite a sprinkling of rocks, but would steer clear of the sandy farm.

Another irrigation scheme of great magnitude is being undertaken by the government in Wyoming. The Shoshone river is to be dammed up in a mountain canyon to make a lake of 3,300 acres and over 100 feet in depth, at a cost of $2,250,000, the reservoir when full to contain 7,000,000,000 cubic feet of water, this is to be turned on 500,000 acres of what is now utterly waste desert land. The walls of this canyon are of granite, and the mouth of the reservoir where the dam will be built is only seventy-five feet in width at the base between the walls, making it a most ideal location for such an enterprise.

The very finest quality of wheat, oats, barley and flax that we have ever seen produced in this country came from the far north, where it is nip and tuck for these cereals to mature between spring and fall frosts. The quality of these cereals is not only high, but the yield is immense in the good crop years, but it looks like taking quite a risk to run the chance of a frost when the wheat is in the milk or a six inch fall of snow when the oats are well in bloom.

A very attractive bit of lawn decoration can be made with a dozen cannas, using for the center of the bed a plant of the dark foliaged type and surrounding this with others of medium height, with the outside row made up of the dwarf kinds. This arrangement is for a circular bed. A dozen plants are enough for a six foot bed, and they want a very rich sandy soil and during the hot weather all the water they can get. They should not be set out until the last of May, and will cost about a doi for plants at your greenhouse.

A friend has a dozen thrifty hard maple shade trees with trunks six inches in diameter growing where he does not want them and wants to know if he can successfully remove them to another location. A tree as large as these and presumably with a heavy and wide spreading top, as such trees would usually have grown where they had plenty of room, could not well be moved and have it live unless the top was also mostly removed. As most of the feeding roots of such a tree would be cut off in the process of removal, it would be necessary to cut back the top to correspond, and in the case of so large a tree the mutilation would be a severe shock. We have set many shade trees out—maples and elms—and have always had the best success by trimming the top down to a bare pole.

Much interest and discussion is being taken in the plan of teaching the elementary principles of agriculture in the country schools. The plan has much to commend it. Plant and animal life studies always interest the little folks.

We have a friend who always sows clover seed with all his small grain crops. We do not know just what his regular course of rotation is, but we do know that he has a wonderfully productive farm, and it has been under cultivation for sixty years.

Comparisons sometimes help one to feel more contented with his lot in life. It would be hard to find any ablebodied man in this country who earned so small a sum as $50 a year and fed himself and family with it, but China and India have such people by the hundred million.

Alfalfa and trolley railways are regenerating the state of Ohio—the alfalfa is restoring the lost fertility of the soil and the trolley is making life in the country accessible to the people, with all its advantages. Indiana, Illinois and Iowa are beginning the good work too.

The minimum rates of transportation are about reached by the great railway corporations of the country. They can hardly further improve the physical condition of their systems by eliminating grades, using bigger engines or larger freight cars so as to much further lower freight rates.

A New York reader wishes to know how to put up grated horseradish at home and have it retain its color as well as that which is put up by the professional canners. We cannot answer his query further than to say that the discoloration referred to is doubtless due to the imperfect exclusion of the air.

A man who had several fine spruce and pines in his front yard took a notion to trim them up. When the job was done his trees were spoiled, for an evergreen on top of a ten foot pole is the most unsightly and unattractive of all lawn trees. Their beauty lies in their heavy base, and to have these symmetrical bases the trees must have room to develop, and when they are planted eight or ten feet apart they can never develop satisfactorily.

As we look over agricultural papers from different sections of the country we note that there is a wonderful diversity in conditions. Some places want more water, some want fertilizers, some more sunshine, some less rain—hardly any place just right; enough of everything, but not properly distributed.

An interesting agricultural item is that a colored boy who had nerve and grit enough to come north and work his way through one of the best agricultural colleges of the west, taking the full four years' course in agriculture, has immediately upon his graduation been offered a nice position in the south as professor of agriculture and animal industry.

A friend who set out a windbreak of Scotch pines twelve years ago writes us that it was one of the best investments he ever made; that the trees are now a perfect windbreak twenty feet high. He planted selected nursery trees from three to four feet high, set two rows, breaking joints, trees sixteen feet apart each way.

In these days of sharp business competition and improved commercial methods eggs are still sold by count and not by weight, an unjust and unfair method, the like of which is not found in the buying and selling of any other commodity that we know of. The French people long ago discarded the count method, and we wonder why it is not done in this country.

Our observations lead us to believe that not less than 60 per cent of the young birds which are hatched of almost any species, save the sparrow, are destroyed from one cause or another before they are able to leave the nest and care for themselves. The domestic cat is one of their worst enemies, the crow and blue jay raid the nests of the tree building birds, while the skunk raids the nests of those which build on the ground. We have known a cat to wipe out a family of eight young wrens in one afternoon, taking them one by one as they left the nest. Birds, like men, find it hard to adapt themselves to civilized conditions. When we consider the tragedies which beset all bird life the wonder is we have any birds left.

A good many of our readers will be wanting to fix up a bit of new lawn this spring, and a suggestion on this line may prove helpful. The soil should first be well spaded or plowed, be reduced to the finest tilth possible and should be well fertilized. If the soil is very sandy, a few loads of muck or clay should be incorporated with the sand. For seeding we know of nothing better than blue grass and white clover. The clover will make a pretty good lawn right away during the first season, while the blue grass will not show up much till the next season, when it will gradually crowd the clover mostly out. After the seed is sown the lawn should be well rolled to get it as level and compact as possible, and a supply of water for it is indispensable to have it do well the first year.

ALFALFA IN CENTRAL ILLINOIS.

A friend writing from central Illinois wishes to know if he can make alfalfa a success in that section. While in nearly all the territory west of the Missouri river alfalfa seems perfectly at home and does well, the growing of it in Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois is almost wholly in the experimental stage at present. Here and there in the states named some measure of success has been attained, but taken as a whole, for reasons not clearly understood as yet, there seems to be a lack of adaptation between the plant and the soil, and many failures result. The plant seems most at home where aridity, irrigation and sunshine are combined. There is more experimentation in progress in the states named being conducted with alfalfa than with any other thing, and within a year or two we look to see it definitely settled whether it can be made an available forage crop or not. One or two things are already settled—one, that it will not grow on all kinds of soil; another, that it will take from two to three years to get a good stand. It is not a rotation crop and the land must be permanently dedicated to its use if it can be grown. It is not as good a pasture grass as clover, timothy or blue grass, for it must never be fed close, but as a hog pasture all through the corn belt it would prove simply invaluable, cheapening the cost of pork production and insuring thriftier, healthier hogs. Our friend must do as others are doing—take a rich and well drained field, sow twenty pounds of seed on well fitted soil in May without a nurse crop, clip with mower three times the first year and let clippings fall on the ground. If it comes on all right the next spring he can probably grow alfalfa; if it comes out yellow and patchy and sickly he probably can't. There is no way but to try it and see. Before sowing the seed send to the department of agriculture and get a package of the bacteria essential to its growth, which will be sent free of charge, with full directions how to use it.

THE PROBLEM OF FARM HELP.

A reader down in New York wants to know what is to become of the farmer unless he is able to secure hired help on the farm at lower wages than are now demanded by the farm hands. He writes that the condition has become so serious down east that much of the land will remain uncultivated this year and that help is almost impossible to obtain. This condition of things is not confined to the east by any means. It prevails all through the more productive western country as well, and it is a condition which is almost paralyzing farm operations. In a locality not far from where the writer lives, covering a large area, the farm hands have organized and demand of the farmers $30 per month, board, washing, the keep of a horse and a ten hour day. No man can profitably carry on his farm work under such conditions, and thousands of farmers are turning this way and that to devise some plan to be rid of the hired help question. It is like hiring a man to milk the cows and giving him all the cream for his labor in so doing. Some are seeding their farms down, some are selling part of their land, some renting, and the very best and safest business in the country is being disturbed and almost demoralized by the existing condition of things. We venture to offer one or two suggestions which in some cases may tend to better the condition. Seed all the land down which cannot be handled by the owner himself; keep sheep, which one year with another will pay as well as cows and demand but a minimum of work and care; procure every available machine or implement which can be made to do the work of a man, and use horseflesh instead of men. Let the calves suck the cows and raise baby beef. This will insure the fertilizing and renovation of the farm anyhow, and what is made the farmer can put in his jeans. Times may change.

WHAT TWENTY ACRES WILL DO.

This man has a twenty acre field of land located near a good town and wants to know how best to use it. There are very large possibilities connected with such a tract, and, properly managed, it can be made to produce an income equal to that of many a quarter section farm run in the old and the common way. There is first and foremost the possibility of securing an unlimited amount of the best of fertilizer at a low cost, and this means a high degree of productiveness. Then extra help is available at special seasons, which is not always the case on the country farm. Such a tract can be made most profitable used on the line of market gardening, the growing of special crops—strawberries, small fruits, cabbages, onions, celery, asparagus, tomatoes, herbs and early potatoes. While such a tract planted to corn would produce 1,000 bushels, worth, say, $500, used in the manner suggested, it can easily be made to produce five times as much, or $2,500. Twenty acres is a large farm under an intensive system of agriculture.

Save your legs and get one of those new harrow carts and ride when dragging the corn. There is no merit left in doing any kind of work in the old hard way when there is a better and an easier way.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for anycase of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

The New Franklin and Clearfield R. R.

A dispatch from Franklin, Pa., says that in an interview, General Chas. Miller stated that the double track railroad which is to be known as the Franklin and Clearfield railroad will be constructed and that work would be commenced this year. For several months engineers have been busy surveying the route for this road between Clearfield and Franklin, and constructed it will connect the Lake Shore railroad with the Beech Creek railroad. It will make a shorter route from Chicago to Philadelphin, New York and the east and its construction means much to the section of country through which it will traverse.

One Sided

By MARAVENE KENNEDY

....Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure....

"A wife? You mean a housekeeper. Unless I learn to cook your dinners and make my own dresses you won't marry me. Very well." She laid his ring on the table. "It isn't so much that I object to the work of cooking and sewing, but that you should make it an issue in our marriage."

Weston's handsome face was troubled.

"I love you," he said simply, "love just to look at you, be near you, hear your voice, but there has to be more than an emotion between folks for a happy wedded life. Humanity is pretty poor stuff; we never rise far above our material wants. When a man has just downed a poorly cooked dinner—burnt steak, undone biscuit, soggy pie—he's not just in the humor to appreciate his wife's kisses."

He drew her on his knee and kissed tenderly the mutinous little mouth.

"It's for your happiness as much as mine, sweetheart. I don't want to make a slave of you. We'll have a girl to help with the work, and I won't howl over the bills for my little wife's dresses. But I want you to know how to do things."

"Papa is satisfied with the way I manage his house," she said stubbornly.

Weston glanced at the untidy rooms, the slovenly servant passing the open window. He thought of the unsavory meals he had eaten in "this house" and inwardly groaned.

"But, Lucie," he urged, "wouldn't you rather laugh with me evenings than cry on my shoulder because the cook's left and you've burned the meat up, or because Madame Highflier has ruined your new frock? My sister was raised pretty much as you've been, and I lived with her a year after she was married, so I know whereof I speak. John has dyspepsia and looks as though he wished heaven were his home."

"He had no right to marry unless he could support his wife properly," she retorted unreasonably.

"He earns $6,000 a year," said Weston dryly, "three times what I do." He shrugged his shoulders and laughed. "You see, darling, it behooves us to know how to manage our house and our frocks."

IN A FLASH WENT DOUGHY HANDS AND ALL AROUND HIS NECK.

"Life is too short to drudge," said she, unmollified. "I want my time for my own—to read, study, travel about."

"That's different," he answered in a constrained voice. "I was thinking of just a little home, with our own pretty yard and garden. I even looked forward, joyfully, to working that same garden myself; and a nice little horse and runabout, and a few weeks' vacation in summer, and one servant just to help—not to manage. My brother Ned lives that way—he and Alice and the two children. Ned don't earn as much as I do, either. So you see—I—I thought"— He waited a little. "Good-by, Lucie," he said softly and put the discarded ring in his pocket.

"It's my ring," she cried, then jerked her hand away as he tried to put it on her finger.

"Keep it, Lucie; it's yours, as are my heart and life. You can send it to me when—you—marry the man who can give you the things I can't."

"I hate you!" she sobbed and rushed from the room.

Weston went slowly down the walk, a serious look on his strong, young face. Perhaps he had bungled, he thought miserably. But he was only a man, practical and unimaginative; he could not know that to the girlish, romantic mind it was simply impossible to think of love as other than thrills, kisses and blissful hours of being together.

Lucie cried heartbrokenly. For a week she stayed at home and hugged her grief—not nearly so joyous a proceeding as hugging Tom and talking and laughing in their jolly way together. But on Thursday she went to see Emma Day. Emma was a music teacher. Then the tide turned. It was a buxom Irish girl with pleasant face and hearty voice. She wanted to take music lessons. She was cook in a foine family, ma'am; she had three hours a day all to hersilf, so she did, an' could she be afther larnin' to play the pianny at all in a year come last Palm Sunday?

Miss Day looked commiseratingly at the girl's big, unshapely fingers.

"It takes a long time to learn to play the piano well," she said kindly, "and it would cost you about all your wages. Frankly, I would advise against it."

The girl's face fell dismally. She turned to Lucie. "Is it so, ma'am?" she asked piteously. "I cooks on your sthrate, an' I hears you playin', an' I want to play that thune about the shamrock that you plays, ma'am."

She sat down with a thump as Lucie's face, too, spoke disapproval. "I must, ma'am," she moaned. "It's for Ignatius. He's comin' over thin. He loves the pianny—he's to be me man—an' he sings foine, ma'am. There's not his equal in the ould country, an' him a tyin' to me. Shure, an' it's one sided, it is. If I could only do something to plaze him; somethin' to make him feel I was desarvin' of his love."

"He'll have your love—yourself!" cried Lucie in a strange, tense voice.

"An' shure an' he will, ma'am; a great hulk who can cook his victuals an' wash an' iron; any girl can do that. I wants to do somethin' for him, somethin' that'll make him feel histed up over, ma'am. 'An' shure an' Katie did this for me,' he'll say. It's the swate consate of men to want their swatehearts to do for thim what they've nivver done for no one else. It would be worth all the time an' money, ma'am, jest to see me boy's face whin I sets down an' plays him a thune."

Lucie's fair face was transfigured. To see her Tom's face, to hear him say, "And my Lucie did this for me!"

"You shall play!" she cried joyously. "I'll teach you myself, an hour every day, and you can teach me to cook and to keep house properly. I'm to be married too. It's one sided now, but—it won't be."

Then they both cried a little, but during the next month life was roseate to Lucie and Katie, though they both worked harder than they had ever done before. Lucie had intended to be very dignified about her love affair, but somehow Katie learned as much about Tom and his perfections as did Lucie about Ignatius and his "darlint ways."

Lucie was in the kitchen, hands deep in biscuit dough, dimpled arms moving with scientific motion, face flushed and deeply interested—when in walked Tom. And the look he gave her! In a flash went doughy hands and all around his neck.

"I got the dinner all myself yesterday," was what she said. "And I've made two dresses, and Katie says my pies are as good as hers—she can play exercises now—and, oh, Tom, tomorrow I'm to bake a cake!"

And though two open mouthed, wild eyed Irish girls stood not six feet away, Tom kissed the sweet upturned face "tin whole times, kusmack, for I counted thim meself," wrote Katie to Ignatius.

Comforting.

A man who had buried three wives took to himself a fourth lately, and, as is wont in Lancashire, the pair went for a walk one Sunday afternoon. On the way they called at the cemetery where the three former wives reposed in the one grave. The new wife read the inscriptions with some interest, but her feelings may well be imagined when she came to the usual text from the Scriptures. It ran, "Be ye also ready."—London Standard.

Two Ways of Looking at It.

After the battle of Gettysburg a member of the sanitary commission ran across in the country some miles from the town a Dutch farmer who said he had never seen soldiers. "And why haven't you seen them?" the question was put. "Why didn't you get your gun, go into town and help drive them out?"

"Why," said the farmer, "a feller might 'a' got hit."

A woman who lived in a little house close to the battlefield viewed the danger in a different spirit.

She was a red cheeked, wholesome young body who looked well after the ways of her household. She was asked if she felt afraid when the shells flew.

"Well, no," she replied. "You see, I was busy baking bread for the soldiers, and I had my dough raising. The neighbors ran into the cellars, but of course I couldn't leave my bread. When the first shell burst into the window and tore into the room an officer came in and said to me, 'You better get out of this,' but I told him I couldn't leave my bread. I kneaded the dough until the third shell crashed into the room; then I went down cellar. But first I put my bread safe into the oven."

DUCKS WERE DECEITFUL.

Ingenious Fraud Practiced by the Heathen Chinee.

The ingenuity of the Chinaman is wonderful, surpassing at times the belief of his European and American brothers. A striking instance of it, not unmixed with guile, was brought to light recently during the trading transactions of two foreigners at Boone Road market.

This husband and wife, having decided that duck should figure on the menu of the day, went the round of the market in search of a fat, plump, well flavored bird.

After awhile two were purchased. They were beautifully dressed ducks, young, but plump, and promised to show up well at the evening table.

When the domestic pair got home the lady chanced to puncture one of the birds with a sharp knife, and it collapsed like a toy balloon. The other, subjected to similar treatment, followed suit. Their erstwhile inflated bodies became flat and bony and mere ghosts of the ducks that had been bought.

Investigation showed that a thin piece of wire had been fastened round the birds' necks and elsewhere, and everything pointed to the conclusion that the ducks had been blown up with a bicycle pump.

How the ducks had been drawn and then made to stand the strain of the air pump is evidently an oriental trade secret.

When the young couple again go shopping for ducks they will take a skewer along with them.—Shanghai Times.

Where the Blame Lay.

Sternly the judge regarded the prisoner before him. He beheld a man of tender, unripe years, whose face was fair to look upon, bearing as it did every known mark of honesty. Appearances gave no reason for committing the crime, and yet the jury had decided, on first ballot, that the prisoner was guilty. In fact, the plea for the defense was very weak.

"It seems incredible," said the judge, "that a man with your connections should have stooped so low as to become a common forger. Surely some one else must have been the cause of your downfall."

"There was some one," replied the prisoner. "It is yourself, your honor."

"I?" ejaculated the judge, amazed.

"Just so. A short time ago I was a member of the graduating class in my college. You were one of the speakers at the farewell session. You may remember your words: 'The world lies ahead of you. But you must push your way steadily. I want each one of you to forge to the front; I want to soon see each occupying a prominent position in the eyes of your families and of the world.'" The prisoner paused and smiled. "I forged quicker than the others. I've gained a place before the public. And now, what next?"

"Three years," laconically said the judge. "Next case!"—New York Times.

Stewed Snapper.

"Stewed snapper," said the proprietor of a restaurant that makes a specialty of the toothsome dish, "is almost as distinctively Philadelphian as scrapple and pepper pot. Prepared by the same formula as terrapin, with a liberal seasoning of sherry, snapper is quite as palatable as the diamond back, provided the meat comes from a young turtle. In fact, I defy any one but an epicure to tell the difference. The snappers that come to Philadelphia are mostly caught in the muddy bottomed creeks that flow into the Delaware up the Jersey side, and just now they are coming in very plentifully. The snapper is a difficult catch to handle, but the Jerseymen know how to turn the trick and get them to market alive. They run in weight from four pounds all the way up to forty pounds, the smaller ones being naturally more tender and consequently better meat. Some few are shipped to Trenton and New York, but most of them come to Philadelphia."—Philadelphia Record.

Making a Will.

Always call in a lawyer to make a will. If one cannot be procured then write your wishes in the simplest words you can. Never try to use what you may consider "legal terms." Few persons realize how difficult it is to make a will. A classic example is the celebrated Lord St. Leonards, at one time lord chancellor of England. He was the foremost conveyancer of his day, and yet when he died an informal will was found in his coat pocket, hurriedly written when he was at the point of death. This will occupied the courts for years and served "to point a moral and adorn a tale."

All plants, such as the cabbage, celery, tomato, pepper and eggplant, most flowers grown from the seed and all trees raised from the seed or nuts are greatly benefited by transplanting when young one or more times before final setting out. They thus obtain a bushy, stocky habit and a large root system and invariably make fine and thrifty plants and trees.

HISTORY OF THE ANCHOR.

Various Improvements That Have Been Made In Its Shape.

The ships' anchors in general used up to the beginning of the last century consisted of a long, round iron shank, having two comparatively short, straight arms or flukes, inclined to the shank at an angle of about 40 degrees and meeting it in a somewhat sharp point at the crown. In large anchors the bulky wooden stock was built up of several pieces, hooped together, the whole tapering outward to the ends, especially on the aft or cable side. About the beginning of the last century a clerk in the Plymouth naval yard, Pering by name, suggested certain improvements, the most important of which was making the arms curved instead of straight. At first sight this simple change may seem of little value, but consideration will show that this is not the case. The holding power of an anchor depends on two principal conditions—namely, the extent of useful holding surface and the amount of vertical penetration. The latter quality is necessary on account of the nature of ordinary sea bottoms, the surface layers of which are generally less tenacious and resisting than is the ground a short distance below.

In the year 1831 chain cables began to supersede the hempen ones, with the result that the long shanked anchors hitherto in vogue were no longer necessary, and anchors with shorter shanks and with heavier and stronger crowns gradually came into use. In consequence of these changes a commission was appointed in the year 1838 to inquire into the holding power of anchors, and a principal result of its labors was the adoption of the so called admiralty pattern anchor, which continued to be used in the navy up to the year 1890. The invention of the steam hammer in 1842 made the welding of heavy masses of iron a comparatively easy and reliable process, so that from this time onward the strength of anchors fully kept pace with that of the chain cables which had come into general use.

A number of patents for anchors were taken out prior to the great exhibition of 1851, and, public attention having been called to the models there shown, in the following year a committee was appointed by the admiralty to report on the qualifications of anchors of the various kinds. Practical trials were then instituted, and as a result Trotman's anchor took the highest place, Rodger's anchor being second on the list. Some of the tests to which the anchors were submitted were of doubtful value, such, for instance, as "facility for sweeping." Nowadays, however, at all events for deep ships in shallow harbors, it is considered an advantage for an anchor to offer as little obstruction as possible above ground.—Science Siftings.

Tinted Spectacles For Beauty.

"Tinted spectacles," said a New York optician who makes a specialty of them, "are mainly for women who demand that their beauty as well as their sight shall be considered. A light gray or a pale blue eye looks very weak and unattractive through ordinary eyeglasses. By slightly tinting the lens we can add very much to the color of the pupil of the eye and to the general attractiveness of the face. The tinting does not at all interfere with the magnifying properties of the glass. In fact, some oculists send us prescriptions for tinted glasses, maintaining that for blue or gray eyes they are far superior to the ordinary crystal glasses. Blue eyes absorb more light than brown eyes, so that any tempering of the sun's rays is sure to be beneficial."

DON'T BE WOOZY!

NERO

was a most crafty Roman, but he made one mistake.

He committed suicide at the wrong end of his life,

He should have shuffled off at the beginning.

A great many business men today are committing business suicide at the wrong end of their lives

They mean well at the start, but drift away from their good resolutions.

One means of a long and prosperous business life is to have good printing and stationery.

A business is judged by its printed matter.

THE REPUBLICAN

Job Printing Department is prepared to furnish the best.

Cost is a secondary consideration when you consider the quality—sufficient it is to say our prices are so reasonable that it would be a waste of shoe leather to look further.

It has a distinctiveness all its own—a something that distinguishes it from the common trash of the ordinary shop.

Again we say:

"Don't be Woozy."

Roosevelt and Fairbanks, it has the right ring,

Mark this prediction Roosevelt and Fairbanks will carry Centre county by a majority exceeding 1000.

While the Filipinos are swinging around the circle some mayor ought to take them to a Court House and show them a trial by jury.

If the Democratic nominee at St. Louis is to be a dark horse, what's the matter with our own P. Gray Meek. They might go farther and fare a darn sight worse.

If the recent Republican County convention was cut and dried, as the Democrats claim, who cut and dried it? Why the Republican voters who instructed the delegates.

Thirty-two states out of forty-five will chose Governors this fall. Some of them would do quite as well as they have done if they were to draw the names by lot out of a hat.

The Democratic convention at St. Louis is next week but the probabilities are still very obscure. Parker and Hearst tend to cancel each other in the equation, and the possibilities include the selection of a dark horse—Miles, Cleveland, Pattison, Folk, Towne, Grey, Gorman or even P. Gray Meek.

Our friend from Curtin township, John A. Daley, for whom we have the greatest respect and admiration is we believe a man of too good sense to be found anywhere else than on the Republican firing line next November. We say this in spite of the assertions of the Democratic newspapers who are trying to foment trouble in the Republican ranks.

OUR EDITORIAL FRIEND JOHN A. DALEY.

The "Howard Hustler," whose editorial columns are in charge of John A. Daley until after the November election, contains what it terms a note of warning to the Republican leaders of this County because Mr. Daley failed to secure the nomination for Assembly.

It Mr. Daley had studied the party rules in advance of the primaries he would have known that the majority rules in the Republican party and that the choice of the voters alone determined the action of the convention.

The REPUBLICAN has already pointed out the fact that in each case the nominees of the convention secured an actual majority of the vote cast at the primaries. Is Mr. Daley blaming the party leaders because they could not overturn the wishes of the party by manipulation of the delegates in his favor?

John A. Daley has no doubt a few friends who wished to see him nominated, but it is his duty as a Republican to bow to the wishes of his party so clearly expressed by the vote at the primaries and fall in line for the whole ticket. It is his duty, simply because he was a candidate, to work so much harder for the ticket so selected. Many men fully as deserving as Mr. Daley, and many who have not received half the favors at the hands of the party which have been accorded to our friend from Curtin Township, have been turned down much harder than he was without trying to place the blame for their defeat on the heads of the party leaders.

Mr. Daley has been considered a man of judgment and discretion, he now has the chance to add to his reputation or to mar it forever.

They May Come.

Voting machines may come into use in the State of Pennsylvania. An effort will be made at the next session of the legislature to have a bill enacted which will permit the use of the machine at the future elections. Governor Stone, it will be remembered, vetoed a similar bill. The argument against the machine was the expense of purchasing, which will cost something like $500 each. There are many arguments, however, in favor of the voting machine, one of which is that with the machines fraud is almost impossible, and the result of an election in each voting district can be ascertained immediately after the polls close, as the machine is self-registering.

Strange Story in Clendennen Case.

Jersey Shore, June 27.—There's a queer story going the rounds concerning the suspected murderer of Telegraph Operator William Clendennen. One hears it often these days when groups of New York Central railroad men chat away the time, and, as they declare there is substantial foundation for the tale, it has come to be considered worthy of belief. It has to do with the breaking down in health of one of three men who, it is said, have been under surveillance for months past, and who, since the brutal murder in November last, has dwindled from a stalwart man of nearly 200 pounds to a very skeleton of his former self, and today is a shambling, nervous wreck whose life seems to be haunted by the memory of some horrible scene.

The story, too, has it that New York Central detectives, within a few months back—indeed, since a few weeks after the murder—have been given employment in various branches of the company's service, whose purpose it is to gradually, by confession or other proof, gather evidence that will warrant several arrests. A Central railroader said yesterday: "Nobody up this way any longer believes that the murder of Clendennen was done for robbery. The watch and money were taken only for a 'blind.' There's a secret that's bound to come out of that tower some day—and many believe its coming pretty soon. There's one man suspected to know something of the murder who is becoming a mental and physical wreck, though before the killing he was sound as an oak. He's been around all the time since the murder, and he will not go away, either—unless they take him. This man may be wrongfully suspected for it's an awful thing to have placed at your door when you are entirely innocent."

What the railroad man says is true—it must be an awful thing, if by circumstance or crook, the finger of suspicion becomes wrongfully pointed at one for such a crime as was the killing of Operator Clendennen. To a sensitive mind and make-up it is enough to send him to his grave—or a madhouse. For this reason, and giving the man the benefit of the doubt, many of the railroaders who have had whispered the identity of the suspect, declare that they will not permit themselves to believe that this man is guilty, even though his physical condition apparently bears out the awful story. Other causes might very easily have entered in to work decided change in his appearance, and that thus he may be the innocent victim of a suspicion both blighting and cruel.

THE FAR EAST.

What is Transpiring Between the Japs and Russians.

TOKIO, June 27.—Admiral Togos, detailed report of the battle of Thursday last at the entrance to the harbor of Port Arthur, in which a Russian battleship was sunk and two cruisers damaged, has caused widespread rejoicing.

The Admiral reports that on Thursday last, June 23, his patrol boat discovered the battleship Peresviet and seven other vessels, accompanied by nine torpedo boat destroyers, near the entrance of Port Arthur harbor. They warned him wirelessly and he immediately advanced his fleet except those engaged upon special duty. The Admiral then discovered that the Russian fleet, which consists of six battleships, five cruisers and fourteen destroyers, evidently planned a dash southward by sundown.

BATTLESHIP SUNK, CRUISERS DAMAGED

The Russians stopped outside the entrance of the harbor, and after nightfall a fleet of Japanese torpedoboat destroyers resolutely attacked the Russian ships and succeeded in torpedoing and sinking a battleship of the Peresviet type, and disabled the battleship Sevastopol. A cruiser of the Diana type was observed being towed into the harbor on Friday morning and it was evident she had sustained severe damage.

JAP SHIPS LITTLE DAMAGED

The Japanese ships sustained little damage. The torpedoboat destroyer Shirakumo was hit by a shell which fell in the cabin, and had three men killed and three others wounded. The Chidori, a vessel of the same class, was hit behind the engine room, but no casualties resulted therefrom. Torpedoboats 64 and 66 were slightly damaged.

LIAO YANG, June 27.—Reports of fighting between the advance guard regiments are continually coming in The battles are indecisive, but they show that the Japanese are moving forward regularly on each front. This is corroborated by official dispatches.

Members of the Red Cross, together with nod-combatants who are desirous of witnessing the fighting, are leaving the south daily.

Sherlock Holmes probably would have been able to tell at a glance just how Veronica Jeffrey came to her death in the "Moore house" and who was the guilty person. But we confess Anna Katharine Green, in her new detective story, "The Filigree Ball," kept us guessing until the precise point near end of the tale when she wished to let us know just who committed the crime. When the mystery was cleared up—we shall not indicate here the way the story turns out—we had more thrills than one could hope to expect from a detective story written in these days.

EXPLOSION KILLS THREE;

Diamond Fireworks Company of Philadelphia Wrecked.

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—Three persons lost their lives and a half dozen others were injured as the result of the explosion of a small bundle of fireworks late Monday in the store room of the Diamond Fireworks company at N. 826 Arch street. The dead are:

Jacob Jancovitch, aged 28 years.
O. Berman, 27 years.
Lena Sempson, 21 years.

The fireworks concern occupied the first floor of the building. The second floor was vacant and the third story was occupied by the French Hat and Bonnet Frame company. Jancovitch was the proprietor of the hat and bonnet concern and Berman and Miss Sempson were his employes. These three were the only persons who were above the first floor. About a dozen persons were employed by the fireworks company.

CAUSE OF EXPLOSION UNKNOWN

The cause of the fireworks exploding is not known. Thomas Conway, one of the firm of the fireworks company was wrapping up a small bundle of fireworks for a customer when it exploded. Almost instantly the entire room full of fireworks became ignited from flying rockets and fire crackers. All the employes on the first floor escaped without serious injury. The front of the first floor was blown out by the explosion of powder and soon the entire building was in flames.

Every effort was made to rescue those on the third floor. Firemen climbed ladders in the midst of the pryotechnics and finally reached those on the third floor. Miss Sempson and Janovitch were found alive, but died in a hospital. Berman was dead when he was taken from the building.

SIX PERSONS SLIGHTLY INJURED.

During the rescue three firemen were injured and three other persons were also cut and burned, but their injuries are not considered serious.

The flames spread to the building occupied by H. S. Kilner and company, publishers of Catholic books, and that occupied by J. L. Gibney and Bros., dealers in automobile supplies, but did no serious damage. The entire loss on all three buildings including stock is estimated at $20,000. There was no insurance on the fireworks establishment.

CAUGHT IN TRAP AND DROWNED LIKE RATS.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, June 28.—Thirty-three persons were killed by an accident which took place near Spanishtown, ten miles west of Kingston, Monday morning in the main conduit of the West India Electric company, which operates the street cars from Kingston, and the shareholders of which are principally Canadians.

Nearly one hundred laborers had been detailed to remove sand from the enormous pipe which is a mile long and which conveys water from the intake on the Rio Cobre to the turbines of the power house. The work had practically been completed when orders were given to allow a small quantity of water to enter the conduit.

Through misapprehension, accident or carelessness, the full force of the water was turned on, and in a mad struggle to escape by means of the manholes ensued with the result that 33 persons were killed.

The tragedy has cast a gloomy over the colony, and a rigid investigation into the cause is now in progress.

Proclamation.

Considerable interest is being taken in Cities and Boroughs of the Commonwealth, relative to the firing or throwing of fire-crackers, fire-balls, squibs, torpedo balls, or other fire works, and more especially to the firing of pistols, by reason of the fact that one year ago many deaths resulted from injuries sustained in the careless use of the same. Up to this time in the various municipalities of this State many arrests have been made for the illegal sale of pistols and fire-crackers, as well as for the premature use of the same, as provided by the law of the State and the Ordinances of municipalities.

Under the Ordinance of the Borough of Bellefonte, as well as under the law of the State, notice is hereby given to all citizens that they are not allowed to use or fire any fire works of any nature whatever, within the limits of the Borough of Bellefonte, EXCEPT on Monday, July 4th, 1904. The maximum penalty will be imposed upon any one violating the provisions of the Ordinance or not complying with this notice.

All good citizens, desirous of preserving life as well as good order are respectfully asked to inform upon and prosecute to conviction any and all offenders of the Ordinance of the Borough.

Given under my hand and the official seal of the Borough of Bellefonte, Pennsylvania, this 24th day of June A. D. 1904.

International Congress of the Salvation Army.

London, June 26.—The third international congress of the Salvation Army opened with a meeting in Albert Hall which was attended by over 5000 delegates representing 49 countries in all parts of the globe. General Booth presided and welcomed the delegates in an extended address, concluding by saying:

"I have been granted permission to extend to you the warmest welcome in the name of King Edward, who on Wednesday last empowered me to say that he had with pleasure met your leader, that that he watched the salvation movement with great interest and that he regarded its success as being of importance to his empire."

The mention of King Edward's name was greeted with great enthusiasm.

General Booth, in referring to the Japanese delegation prayed that peace might come to Japan. He spoke touchingly of the recent death of his daughter, Mrs. Booth-Tucker, wife of the head of the Salvation Army in the United States, who was killed in a railroad accident in Missouri.

Hits Them Hard.

The race is not always to be swift but it is much more likely to go to the swift than to the street corner ornaments. There is some hope for the horse thief, a burglar or a politician, but none whatever for a dead beat. We never could see a ray of hope for the young man who wears the soles of his shoes sore while shuffling along the streets with a cigarette in his mouth and a leer on his face. There is no sort of a show in this world for a girl whose whole business in life is to put on all the showy duds she can get and then eternally gad the streets to try and get some man to look at her. It takes brains, and brains have to be developed by hard study. It takes muscle, and muscle has to be developed by hard work. It takes taste and taste can only be cultivated by choosing. It takes good manners and manners can never come to those who wait on the streets. The boy who sticks to a job and the girl who thinks more of her home than to be flirting with every dirty manikin she meets are the winners in the race for earth's prizes.—X.

"Mickie" A. C. Defeated.

On Thursday evening just at sunset the St. John's Athletic base ball club met the Roosevelt team on the Meadow Brook Park and in a five inning game were defeated by a score of 24 to 6. Had the full nine innings been played no telling what the score might have been. The St. John's boys have the making of a good base ball team, but they need an awful lot of practice. As to the Roosevelt team, they all stick together like a lot of "wet stamps" and played in harmony, that accounts for their continuous victories.

Mack of the "Mickies," with a little practice is going to be a speedy player and will make his mark among the National ball players.

"Dickie" Valance played, you should have seen him. It was worth 50 cents to see "Dickie" going from base to base his steps averaged between eight and ten feet.

"Pinkie" Doll the champion 3rd baseman was right there when the ball was thrown to him, but that was so seldom he got tired waiting and went to sleep.

The "Roosevelt's" crossed bats with the Hecla Park team this afternoon.

They Sold Corn Medicine.

There is a pair of smooth tongued sharpers in the city who are endeavoring to secure all the coin they can from people who are easily taken in by their scheme. They have a medicine that will cure anything including tooth ache, corns and bunions. Yesterday morning an aged resident was accosted by the pair as he occupied his front porch. They explained the value and worth of the medicine and sold a bottle of colored water toned up with a little turpentine for half a dollar. They followed the old gentleman into the house to receive the money and while there questioned him concerning the house, his habits as well as those of his family. They were interrupted by the appearance of a relative of the old man and left. They swindled the old gentleman with the fake "corn" cure and would likely have obtained more of his money had they not been interrupted.—Altoona Tribune.

A Hint to Young Men.

The only way by which capital can increase is by saving. If you spend as much as you get, you will never be richer than you are. It is not what a man gets, but what he saves, that constitutes his wealth. Go, learn the first two rules of arithmetic; learn addition and subtraction. Add to your present capital any amount you please; subtract the sum which you add, and tell us if the last amount will not be the same as the first. Every man should, in every year of his life, make some addition to his capital. You say you get but little. Never mind; spend less than little, and then next year you will get more, for you will have the profit upon the sum you save.

The Roosevelt base ball club of Bellefonte was not run to death here as at Milesburg. One (1) run was the sum total that the favorite sons of Teddy could tally against the Mountaineers on Saturday and an error was the price paid for this run, while the home team succeeded in crossing the plate 13 times. The visitors were powerless to make the proper connection with Shays famous lightning perforators. The home team batted well and gave the pitcher good support. The game was characterized by fast playing and the absence of quarrels over decisions The line-up was as follows.

The great disadvantage under which a painter is forced to work was brought home to us very forcibly last Monday. The writer observed Mr. J. I. Yarnell using the brush on his fence and whether it was done in compliance with some regulation or restriction of the painter's union or not we are unable to say; but, nevertheless suffice it to state that he was forced to do this arduous work in so uncomfortable a position as that of being seated on a common four-legged office chair and with nothing softer than a small feather cushion to sit on. Now why, let us ask, why is it that in this day of 20th century conveniences, in this day of morris chairs and ostermoor matresses, he could not have had a sofa wheeled in front of paint and brush and fence and then to have said to himself, "Soul and body, take thine ease for little will I exert myself."

The second team has another scalp to add to their list of victory's, This time they scalped the Clarence team in a well played game on Saturday. It was not only a game between base ball teams but also between the managers of the respective teams. Manager Gilliland of the second team and manager Budinger of the Clarence nine were the central figures of the game as they run back and forth along the cochers line, cheering and directing the players in the fine points of the game, when the managers would meet they would have a friendly quarrel and and again repeat their Indian yell. The game ended when the Second team had 12 scored and the Clarence team one less.

An Ideal Outing.

Those who try it find that the best summer vacation is one taken where there are profitable meetings to attend each morning, and amusements afternoons and Saturdays. There is to be a Vacation Conference of Church Workers, held in the Leather Stocking country of the western Catskills, from August 4 to 14, 1904. Sessions will be held at Richfield Springs and Cooperstown. This Conference is for the deepening of the spiritual lives of Church workers. Those who are to give the series of addresses, having this special aim in view, are the Rev. J. O. S. Huntingdon of the Order of the Holy Cross, and the Rev. John R. Matthews, Archdeacon of Columbus. Other preachers and speakers will be the Bishops of Southern Brazil, of Porto Rico, Delaware, Central New York, West Virginia and New York; the Dean of the Cathedral of the Incarnation at Garden City, the Rev. Hiram R. Hulse, Field Secretary of the Church missionary Society, the Rev. Harvey Officer, Jr., of Princeton, and the Rev. James E. Freeman of Yonkers.

Lay speakers will include Mr. Walter Henry Hall, choirmaster of St. James Church, New York, whose addresses on Church music will be illustrated by choristers from St. Peter's Church Albany; Mr. Hubert Carleton, General Secretary of the Brotherhood, and Mr. Henry W. Harvest, of the Christian Union, New York, on work of juniors. Church work to be discussed will be that of the Brotherhood, the Lay Helpers, the Sunday School, the Church School, and General Missions. In Sunday School discussion will be study training classes each morning, designed for teachers and pastors, conducted by Rev. Wm. Walter Smith, M. A., M. D., Secretary of the Few York Sunday School Commission. There will be Bible study each morning, the leaders to be the Rev. Samuel R. Colladay of Berkeley Divinity School. There will also be an outdoor missionary meeting, and members of choirs are asked to bring their vestments in their trunks, and take part in the outdoor procession on the closing Sunday afternoon.

Recreation on afternoons and Saturdays will consist of tally-ho trips through a most beautiful upland country, boating on two lakes, bathing in fresh and mineral waters, the latter in one of the finest bath houses in America, golfing, tennis, band concerts, etc: The railroads make summer rates to the Springs, tickets good until October, but it is probable that a still lower rate will be made for this Conference. Those who send in their names will be notified of such rate. Through cars are run from Boston, New York, and Philadelphia. The rates at hotels and boarding houses are $8 to $25 per week, excellent accommodations being available at $10 and $12. Why not select the Conference date and place for your vacation? For further particulars address: Eugene M. Camp. American Church Missionary Society, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York.

The Start

In married life is generally made on an equal footing of health in man and wife. But how soon, in many cases, the wife loses the advantage and fades in face and fails in flesh, while her husband grows even more rugged and robust.

There is one chief cause for this wifely failure and that is, the failure of the womanly health. When there is irregularity or an unhealthy drain, inflammation, ulceration or female weakness, the general health is soon impaired.

$500 REWARD! FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"A little over a year ago I wrote to you for advice," says Mrs. Elizabeth J. Fisher, of Diana, W. Va. "You advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' which I did, and with the most happy result. I was troubled with female weakness and bearing-down pains. Had a very bad pain nearly all the time in my left side, nervousness and headache. Was so weak I could hardly walk across my room. Could not sit up only just a little while at a time. My husband got me some of Dr. Pierce's medicine and I began its use. Before I had taken two bottles I was able to help do my work. I used three bottles in all and it cured me. Now I do all my housework. It is the best medicine I ever used."

How Mr. Frog's Wit Saved Him.

One day a jolly old pelican was walking on the shore of a pond when he came across Mr. Bullfrog. "Hello," said he, "you're just the fellow I was looking for. My stomach reminds me that it is about dinner time, and there is no one that I should rather have present at my meals than you, sir." And he chuckled to himself.

"You don't intend to eat me, do you?" asked the frog anxiously.

"Well, that was the calculation I was figuring on," replied the pelican.

"But I'm green," said the frog.

"Good joke," laughed the pelican, "but I feel sure you're ripe." And, putting his long neck down quickly, Mr. Pelican scooped up Mr. Frog.

As he reached the pelican's great pouch the frog cried out, "Oh, Mr. Pelican, let me ask you a riddle."

"Go on," said he.

"Why are you like a cough drop?" asked the frog.

"Give it up to save time," said the pelican.

"Because you've got a frog in your throat," answered the frog.

That was more than Mr. Pelican could stand. He opened his mouth and laughed enough to kill himself.

Mr. Bullfrog, seeing the chance he wanted, made good his escape.

There are times when it is a good thing to know a joke or two.—Chattanooga Times.

Individuality in Vegetation.

The vegetation covering the slopes of European mountains as well as that on the great snowy peaks of the American cordilleras and other ranges has an individuality, a character, of its own, striking even the most indifferent of tourists. In this flora all is dwarfed and on a small scale. The flowers alone, of relatively exaggerated size and generally brilliant in color, seem to be abnormally developed. The manner of growth of these plants is a surprise to those ignorant of their history and the cause of their peculiar appearance. While in the lowlands large plants, with spreading branches and well developed foliage, generally have flowers smaller than the leaves, the reverse is true in the higher regions.

Another easily noticed peculiarity is that while the Alpine flora in sunshine shows flowers of great size and vivid coloring, as the gentians, auriculas, anemones and violets, in the shade, on the other hand, we find them small and weak in color. Thus the action of the sun's rays on vegetation at great elevations seems to be more intense than on the plains.

Again the lightning rod! Is it of any use? That depends. If lightning would always go where it ought to we would put up a rod, but it doesn't. The best protection is a life insurance policy for yourself and a lightning clause in your fire insurance policy. The value of the rod depends almost wholly on its having a perfect earth connection, and not one rod in twenty has this, and is thus made a menace rather than a protection. Anyhow do not patronize a lightning rod peddler unless you want to get some points on the business.

Jailed for Stealing a Watch.

A few weeks ago Miss Alice Pierson of Unionville missed a fine open-faced gold watch valued at $100. It was an heirloom and greatly prized by her. She suspected Ira Green as the thief, for she knew that he knew where she kept it.

Miss Pierson placed the case in the hands of Detective Rightnour who on Monday went after his man. He found him in the ridges back of Julian and at once charged him with the theft. In the surprise of the moment the young man admitted that the watch was at Tyrone; and, having gotten his foot into it thus far, he made a clean breast of it and accompanied the detective to Walton's jewelry store at Tyrone where he had sold it.

Mr. Rightnour secured the watch and then came to Bellefonte with his prisoner, who is now in Fort Taylor on the hill awaiting the action of August court; and as he is going to plead guilty, the judge will no doubt help him to keep time.

He Eats Them off.

"If one inch of a bull pup's tail cost $56, what would the entire animal come to?"

The problem is the outgrowth of the attempt of James Hafer, Jr., to make a better dog of Miss Laura Hutchinson's bull pup. Hafer said the animal would amount to nothing until it lost some of its tail. A bystander dared Hafer to do the job. Hafer said he could do it, and, grabbing the bull pup in his arms, he clipped off an inch of the tail with his teeth.

Miss Hutchinson was angry, and a warrant was sworn out for Hafer's arrest. Hafer lit out for Pittsburg, but his friends negotiated a settlement in his behalf, Miss Hutchinson said nothing less than $50 and the costs of the suit would atone for the loss of one inch of the dog's tail. The amount was paid. Miss Hutchinson still has the dog.—Lewistown Journal.

Backache pains come from sick kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills will cure it.

Bellefonte people endorse this.

Mrs. J. Cowher of Bishop Street says: "I was very bad with my back and head. I suffered pain in both and was very restless nights besides being so tired all the time that I could hardly drag myself about. I was very lame across my kidneys and bending over or being on my feet much was extremely painful. Reading about Doan's Kidney Pills and seeing them so highly recommended for these troubles I procured them from F. Potts Green's drug store. They gave me positive relief, caused me to sleep well, stopped the pains, removed the lameness and invigorated me generally."

The Most Original Novel of the Year.

The most competent judges have pronounced "In the Bishop's Carriage" the most original novel of the year.

It is a tale about flesh and blood people a story for men and women.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, Speaker of the National House of Representatives, is most enthusiastic in his praise of Miss Miriam Michelson's book. This is what he has to say about it:

"I am in receipt of a copy of 'In the Bishop's Carriage,' by Miss Miriam Michelson. I read the same with great pleasure. It seems to me it ought to be a popular publication and one that will exert a good influence. Perhaps I can best describe it by saying that I commenced reading it early in the morning and finished it that night and the coming morning, and when finished I drew a long breath and felt that I had forgotten everything else but the book and regretted that there was not more of it. With respect, etc.

"J. G. CANNON."

Could anything be stronger or could praise come from a better source?

The story is something absolutely new in the literary line—a theatrical romance that abounds in thrilling situations interwoven with genuine humor and human heart-burnings. In fact, the tale is so remarkably good that the Sunday North American of Philadelphia has secured the exclusive right to publish it in this territory, and will print the first instalment next Sunday, June 26, with illustration worthy of the story.

Miss Michelson, the author, has been for several years a successful and much admired writer of newspaper and magazine articles.

ITCHING, oozing, scaling Salt Rheum is cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla,—the great, unequalled remedy for every kind of SKIN DISEASE.

"It was Summer Time in Dixie Land"

Very few people have any idea of the vast amount of money there is to be made and lost in the Music Publishing Business. At times from $10,000 to $20,000 will be lost by a single publisher in trying to make a "winner." Then again a lucky publisher will make a fortune on his first effort. The biggest "Song Hit," and the best money maker in this county at the present time is a song called.—"IT WAS SUMMER TIME IN DIXIE LAND" written by Edwin Kendall. This song is now being sung nightly with great success, in all the principal theatres from Maine to California. There were nearly 300,000 copies of this song sold in less than thirty days from the dats of issue, and present predictions are that over one million copies will be sold inside of one year. It has been calculated by good judges that the publishers will make a net profit of over $80,000 on this one song above all expenses.

CHORUS

It was summertime in Dixie, when she whispered soft and low,
That she loved me and I'd won her heart and hand,
When I kissed the fairest flow'r ever grown in Southern bow'r
It was summertime in Dixie—Dixieland.

Upon receipt of 25 cents in postage stamps, a copy of this beautiful song will be mailed to any address in the United States by the Theatrical Music Supply Co., No. 46 W. 28th St., New York.

$25,000.00 Given Away.

In the past year Dr. R. V. Pierce has given away copies of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Advisor, at an expense to him of $25,000.00 exclusive of postage. This standard book on medicine and hygine containes 1008 pages and more than 700 illustrations. It treats of the greatest and gravest problems of human life in simple English, from a common sense point of view. It answers those questions of sex which linger unspoken upon the lips of youth and maiden. It is essentially a family book, and its advice in a moment of sudden illness or accident may be the means of saving a valuable life. This great work is sent absolutely free on receipt of stamps to defray the cost of mailing only. Send 21 one cent stamps for the book in paper binding, or 31 stamp for cloth covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo N. Y.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

School Teacher Shortage.

Chicago is short of school teachers and needs 200 more for the schools the coming year than it as yet knows it can get. The great increase in the number of occupations open to young women has checked their rush into the single business of school teaching. That is felt everywhere, but is particularly noticeable in Chicago.

The Normal school of Chicago, from which that city's school teachers were mainly recruited, formerly graduated classes averging 350 members. This year only 75 young women were graduated. This is not enough, nor nearly enough to supply the vacancies. The salaries paid school teachers in Chicago are good, as teacher's go, but they are not sufficiently attractive to secure an adequate number of teachers for their public schools the obvious and only alternative is to raise the pay. A first year teacher gets in Chicago $550. This $80 more than an inexperienced teacher gets in Philadelphia, but as it is not sufficient in Chicago it will have to be increased.

In noting the scarcity of school teachers the Philadelphia Press says:

"School teachers' salaries have for some years past showed a very general tendency upward. Philadelphia and Pennsylvania have responded by an increase in school teachers' pay in city and state. Women have secured almost a monopoly of the business of public school teaching, and their competition with each other for places has kept salaries down. Now that so many thousands of them are finding lucrative and suitable employment in other fields the supply of school teachers has begun to fall short of the demand, and to keep the schools supplied the pecuniary attraction of other callings will have to be met by better pay for school teaching."

Henry Clews & Co. Conclusions.

Though dealings on the Stock Exchange are limited, the market displays a strength of undertone that promises well for the future, provided no untoward events intervene during the next two months.

Though finaicial conditions have much improved, the same can hardly be said of general business and industry, both of which are handicapped by high prices and high costs of production. The process of readjustment, however, is already under way. Pig iron has had a heavy fall, and finished iron products must soon accept the inevitable, although prices are still held up by trust influences and contracts delayed in consequence. A great deal of work is also postponed by the excessive demands of labor; but these, too, must be modified by the inevitable leveling down process which has already set in Cotton and cotton goods are also declining, and thus facilitating re-establishment of the industry upon a sounder basis than heretofore.

This process of readjustment, painful as it is, must be faced, and the less it is resisted the better for all. Costs of production are altogether too high, and cost of living cannot be reduced until these come down from the excessively high level of the past few years. As soon as those who take the initiative find values settled upon a more normal basis business improvement will succeed present depression. Good crops this fall will be the most important factor in any improvement. Crop failures would be national disasters, not only as affecting our foreign trade and our agriculture as the chief basis of our prosperity, but also because of the effects upon prices of food products, which are already very high for the reason that demand is overtaking supply. Hence, our particular need this year is good crops.

For A Hundred Years.

For a hundred years or more Witch Hazel has been recognized as a superior remedy, but it remained for E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, to discover how to combine the virtues of Witch Hazel with other antiseptics, in the form of a salve. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the best salve in the world for sores, cuts, burns, bruises and piles. The high standing of this salve has given rise to counterfeits, and the public is advised to look for the name "DeWitt" on the package, and accept no other. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

Undine Picnic.

Large posters are out announcing the Undine's big picnic at Hecla Park, July 4th. There will be all kinds of sports and amusements during the day. Two bands will supply music while an orchestra will be located at the pavilion for dancing. The fireworks in the evening will surpass all former displays. Then there will be base ball, aquatic sports and all forms of amusements. Go to Hecla park on the 4th.

The Companionship of the Dead.

We live not alone. We live not only with others who are alive; we live also with the dead:

"How many are alive to me
Who slumber in their graves."

The little playmate who was missed out of his class at school one morning, and a few days later was laid in his short and narrow grave—raging fever had consumed him; many, many years have passed by since, yet his merry, honest laugh rings in our ears as we write these lines. Yes, he is here in this room; we can see him just as he looked and smiled then We never quarreled with him. It was a friendship unalloyed, and so, unalloyed, it has remained to this hour.

The aged persons we knew in our youth, who used to speak to us words of counsel and of wisdom, they, too, are our companions still. How vividly their venerated forms rise up before us, and again we seem to hear their voices as of old.

Fairest and most lovely, still radiant with youth and beauty, comes back one, unchanged, from the invisible land, and seems to smile upon us as on the white page we trace these words to her memory:

"I see thee still
Remembrance faithful to her trust,
Calls thee in beauty from the dust,
I see thee still!"

He who fondly and habitually cherish the memory of the friends who have gone before him to the shadowy land, finds in it a chief and inexhaustible source of satisfaction and of happiness. This we rob death itself of victory; for imagination—memory—recalls from its power, and again endows with life and beauty those whom he has claimed for his own. How many an hour, by day and by night, now sweet and precious to us, would be lonely indeed but for the companionship of the dead!

A Most Remarkable Success.

There are many remarkable successes on the road this season, but none exceeds the popularity enjoyed by the latest Bellefonte success, "Al Robert's Two Shows in One." The press and the public accord in an ovation wherever it is presented. The pictures thrown on the canvas are superb, thus the scenic effect is perfectly magnificent. The story told by Mr. Roberts is an intense, affecting and interesting one. One of the most notable pictures is "Phil Sherdian's ride to the sea" which is a master piece and well worth the admission. It is full of hearty laughter and the entertainment is brought to a close by a superbial climax when Mr. Roberts sounds the drum. The music is catchy and at times very heart rendering and again very sensational. Friday night he exhibited in the court house Bellefonte to an audience of 800 people more or less. The rush for seats was so great that both Thomas Donachy and James Corl were compelled to take tickets and the ushers were kept on the rush even long after Mr. Roberts began to explain the pictures which in itself was very interesting. The applause was simply immence, oftentimes Mr. Roberts could not hear his own voice or know what he was saying. However, special praise is due Mr. Robert's for the finish and elaboration with which this production has been prepared and is presented. We thus commend it to the public.

Baby's Strange Play Fellow.

A little daughter of Peter Buelah, the willow wicker man who lives near Bloomsburg, had a very black playmate one day this week, in the shape of a large black snake.

Mr. Buelah had set a clothes basket out in the yard and placed in it his three-year-old daughter to keep her from getting into danger while he was at work. In looking up he saw that the little girl was playing with something, and talking very much, apparently to some person. Mr. Buelah became very much alarmed as he had left nothing within the child's reach to play with, and walking quickly up to the basket was horrified to find a huge black snake, huddled in the basket beside the child, proving the old proverb that snakes, however dangerous, will not harm babies. With one grasp Mr. Beulah snatcher the child from the basket and then attacked the snake, which had become very angry by having the child taken away. It put up a good fight but was soon dispatched. These reptiles seem to be very plentiful in that section this year.

ROOSEVELT AND FAIRBANKS

Standard Bearers of the Republican Party for 1904.

CHICAGO, June 24.—The swift, sure current of public opinion for the second time in the history of Republican conventions yesterday resulted in the selection of a National ticket without a dissenting voice. President Roosevelt for President, and Charles W. Fairbanks for Vice President received every vote in the convention.

Regardless of the fact that the nomination of one had been assured for months and the other for days the announcement of the choice was accompanied with a resounding demonstration which attested the candidates' "universal popularity." The cheering was led by figures known through the breadth of the land and echoed by a mighty throng of enthusiastic men and radiant women assembled in the Coliseum to witness the crowning feature as well as the close of the National convention that marks the semicentennial of the Republican party in the United States.

No less than ten thousand men and women participated in the ratification of the party program and the consequent roar of cheering and handclapping was deafening.

When Gov. Black, of New York, made his speech nominating Theodore Roosevelt to succeed himself as President, the delegates in the Republican convention proved there is no absence of enthusiasm in their ranks when occasion justifies exhibition of that quality. For twenty-five minutes the great throng told its approbation of the convention's choice for President. The name of Roosevelt came from every throat. The New York delegates paraded the hall, shouting at the tops of their voices. Other delegations joined the procession and the well ordered body of an hour before was a shifting mass every semblance of organization gone, while the demonstration was at its height, Chairman Cannon stepped to the front of the stage. He held in his hand the banner which was waived in 1860 when Lincoln was nominated and which has been used in every convention since.

THE OLD FLAG WAVED.

The flag showed the wear and tear of many similar contests. "Uncle Joe" waived it vigorously and kept time with his body. Soon the whole convention was swaying in exact measure. The speaker tired and his place was taken by a young man, who grasped the flagstaff firmly in one hand and with a megaphone led the yelling. He started the call "Roosevelt, Roosevelt, Roosevelt," repeated over and over again with the precision of a college yell. It was taken up by the throng and the cry of "Roosevelt" rolled over the hall in volume so great that the terrific screeching of a hundred steam whistles would have been dwarfed in consequence.

At the conclusion of every seconding speech the performance was repeated and the speakers themselves were generously applauded.

When Senator Fairbanks had been nominated for VicePresident there was no diminution in the demonstration. Voices were hoarse, but the noise for the choice was just as unanimous as it was in filling the first place on the ticket.

When the convention was called to order Thursday the galleries were filled for the first time. Tiers of people were standing in the aisles and back of the row of seats. It was known that the popular feature of the convention—the making of nominations—was the program of the day. The attendance was flattering to the orators chosen to present the names. It was known Wednesday that no contest of any character would develop.

THE NOMINATING SPEECHES.

When ex-Governor Black had concluded his nominating speech Senator Beveridge was recognized by the chair for the purpose of seconding the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt for President. He was followed by George A. Knight, of California. Mr. Knight has a voice which fairly thundered through the hall. He opened his speech by a statement concerning the broad expanse of Republican harmony. "Geographically," he roared, and some wit in the extreme end of the hall shouted in response: "Not so loud." The convention laughed and so did Mr. Knight.

The orator from the Golden Gate City had the convention with him from the first.

The California delegates started a parade around the convention hall at the close of Mr. Knight's speech, but Speaker Cannon wanted to get on with business. Accordingly, as soon as he could make himself heard, he recognizing the next speaker. The seconding speeches following that of Mr. Knight were made by Harry Stillwell Edwards, of Georgia, ex-Governor Bradley, of Kentucky; Joseph B. Cotton, of Minnesota, and Harry S. Cummings of Maryland. Mr. Cummings is one of the colored delegates and he told of the colored man's service to the Republican party and his interest in President Roosevelt.

The roll was called and the unanimous votes of every State delegation were recorded for Mr. Roosevelt.

Pandemonium broke loose again when Speaker Cannon announced that in the convention there were 994 votes and 994 had been cast for Roosevelt. A great picture of the President was carried about through the hall. It was followed by a banner carried by the Oregon delegation bearing the words:

"First gun Oregon 23,804. Roosevelt. Forty per cent. Republican gain."

FAIRBANKS NOMINATED

Alabama again yielded its place at the head of the list when the roll call was started for nominations for Vice President. The rank was this time given to Iowa, and Senator Dolliver, taking the platform, named Senator Fairbanks. The speech was an eloquent endorsement of the candidate's qualifications and was received with tremendous applause. Seconding speeches were made by Senator Depew, Senator Foraker and Governor Pennypacker, of Pennsylvania. All were applauded to the echo, and the great popular demonstration was an enthusiastic tribute to the Indiana stateman whose name was thus joined with Roosevelt's.

When Illinois, Nebraska, Missouri and Georgia were called announcement was made that the candidacies of the favorite sons had been withdrawn. The vote was cast for Senator Fairbanks.

—Misses Caroline and Anna Valentine gave a garden party at Burnham Thursday afternoon, from 4 to 6, in honor of Miss Mary Valentine, of Baltimore.

—The valuable driving horse "Juliet" owned by Ex-Judge Furst died Saturday noon of colic. It was purchased by Judge Furst from W. E. Gheen, of Jersey Shore.

—Mrs. Ellis L. Orvis, Mrs. Harry Keller, Mrs. A. E. Canfield and Miss Caroline Orvis chaperoned a party of young people at the Nittany Country Club Wednesday evening.

—The stone work for the foundation of the new Young Men's Christian Association building was commenced Tuesday but owing to the bad weather very little could be accomplished.

—Joseph W. Rearick, of Scotia, Centre county, and Miss Fania N. Boop of Millmont were joined in marriage at the M. E. parsonage in Montandon on Monday June 20 h by the pastor. Rev. F. Grant Sleep.

—In commemoration of the big fire that destroyed the greater part of DuBois on June 18, 1888, the Morning Courier of that place was printed on Saturday on red paper, a custom it has followed each year since the conflagration, —At the 54th Commencement of Bucknell University the following prizes was awarded: The Aviragnet Prizes—In French, Edith Sarah McNinch, Lewisburg; in music, Ruth Angeline Bottorf, of Lemont, Pa.

—Every indications is that the fruit crop will not be so large, but seems well distributed, so that there will be good fruit and plenty for all. The hay and grain look well and potatoes and corn, while being kept back by wet weather are growing fast.

—On Saturday afternoon "the flyer" which passes through here at 1:25 was run into by a freight train while standing at Beech Creek. We could not get full particulars of the accident but learned that none of the passengers were seriously injured. They received however a good shaking up.

—The Undines have about completed their plans for their big annual picnic at Hecla Park on the Fourth of July. The picnic this year will be as grand as usual and among the special features will be a ball game between the Undines and the Logans. That means there will be something doing.

—The Forty Hour Devotion services opened in the Catholic church at Snow Shoe Sunday morning and closed Tuesday evening. Father Cochran, the pastor at Snow Shoe, was assisted at these services by Reverends Maucher and Codori, of Lock Haven, Rev. Zarek, of Clarence, and Rev. P. McArdle of Bellefonte.

—Jacob Jury has purchased the Hazel restaurant on Bishop street and will take charge of same on July 1st. He has had years of experience in the business having been in the employ of Jno. Anderson and later with Jesse Cox. Besides being a splendid cook he is a good fellow and deserves a fair share of the public patronage.

—Friday was a big one at State College. The Odd Fellows of the county are holding their annual reunion there and Foster's grove will ring with music and revelry. Besides the unnual orations, base-ball and other amusement there will be something entirely new and novel in the entertainment to be given by the children from the Odd Fellows orphan home at Sunbury. This will be an especially attractive feature to the Odd Fellows, as it will show them how well their little folks are cared for and trained at the Sunbury institution.

—Mrs. Lonisa Hoy is quite ill at her home at Rock View.

—The next big event of importance is the Undine picnic at Hecla Park on the Fourth.

—Mrs. Abednego Stevens who died at her home in Clearfield one day last week was buried in Black Oak cemetery, near Port Matilda on Saturday afternoon.

—The Roosevelt base ball team were defeated on Friday at Hecla Park by a score of 9 to 6 and at Snow Shoe by a score of 12 to 2. The boys have no excuses to offer only their inability to hit Shay of Snow Shoe. At Hecla they attribute it to poor decisions of the umpire.

—Mrs. Clara LeGarde Stevens announces the marriage of her daughter Harriet Hannah to Mr. John Beaver White, on Thursday, June the ninth, at Stoke Poges church, Buckinghamshire, England. Mr. White is a nephew of Gen. Beaver, of this place, and was graduated from The Pennsylvania State College with the class of 1894. He is in England with the J. G. White electrical company.

—The Baptist Sabbath school of Milesburg rendered their Children's day services on Sunday evening. June 26th in the presence of a crowded house. The services was one of surpassing excellence and held the closest attention of the entire audience from beginning to end. The recitations, exercises and singing was rendered in a manner that carried impressions of truth to the minds of all.

—We call the special attention of our readers to the World's Fair letters, which we are publishing, one of which you will find in this issue. The letters are written by the wife of a young Bellefonte man, a member of one of our prominent families. The letters are original, interesting and well written and are not to be confounded with the Syndicate matter sent out by Press bureau's. Be sure and read them.

—Tuesday afternoon little Foster, the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Randolph died at his home in Pine Grove Mills after a two weeks illness of gastric fever which developed into spinal meningitis. He is survived by his parents, three brothers and two sisters. Burial took place Friday morning in the Presbyterian cemetery at McAlavey's Fort. He was a bright little boy, well liked by his playmates, who strewed his coffin with flower.

—The authorities of Washington have fixed a penalty of $200 on any one taking mail out of the posto ffice other than their own. All postmasters are liable to make mistakes and get the mail in the wrong boxes and the law says that the people must examine their mail before leaving the office, and if they have mail other than their own, it must be returned at once. That it is the fault of the postmaster makes no difference. This law includes newspapers as well as first class mail.

—Wednesday evening, at the home of the bride at Unionville, Jacob Grove, of Tyrone, and Miss Mina McKinsey, daughter of Thomas and Alda McKinsey, were united in marriage. The groom is a baker and ice cream maker, and is employed in the J. S. Stewart establishment in Tyrone. He is also a member of Sheridan band, and the band tendered him a serenade at the home of his brother, John H. Grove, Thursday evening, where the musicians were served refreshments after the music.

—On Sunday Rev. Lewis Erhard, of Clearfield, preached two excellent sermons at the United Brethren church. At one time Rev. Erhardt was in business in Bellefonte and made many friends who turned out to hear him on the Sabbath day. The singing in the evening was very pretty. A duet entitled "Ashamed of Jesus" sung by Misses Belle Ward and Grace Rumberger was beautiful, both young ladies have well trained voices and on this occasion won the admiration of the entire audience.

—Mr. Jno. F. Gray and son George Oscar Gray of State College Pa. have purchased the Fire Insurance Agency of Grant Hoover to take effect July 1st. Mr. Hoover has retained the farms, lumber and stock on farms, in which he and Mr. Gray were formally interested as partners. This action was made necessary owing to Mr. Hooverssickness caused by overwork. He has accepted a position in the Fire Insurance Business with headquarters in Philadelphia but will continue to reside in Bellefonte. George Oscar Gray is a graduate of Penna State College class of 1903.

—The management of the Odd Fellows Home, the Wayside Inn, for the aged and infirm, man and wife—which will be dedicated July 21, 1904, at Grove City, Mercer Co., Pa., and will be open to all the Odd Fellows in Pennsylvania —are having the beautiful farm laid out in avenues, which are to be macadamized and beautified by trees, flowers and shrubbery and appropriately named, one of which will be known as Mount Horlavenue, leading up to the highest point on the farm, and to be known as Mount Hor at the beautiful new home. The trees of this avenue will have a cast iron plate with the names, numbers and locations of the encampments of Pennsylvania upon them, and they will stand for all time a personal monument of the encampments of Pennsylvania.

—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Cherry on North Thomas street is being repainted and when finished will be one of the prettiest homes in Bellefonte.

—Joseph Gingher has accepted a position as clerk in Jesse Cox's cigar store and restaurant. Joe is a good fellow and will prove himself capable of filling the position.

—Among the graduates at the West Chester Normal this year was Miss Josie Parker White of Bellefonte, Pa. Her graduating thesis was "The Genesis of Things."

—A scrap between the Cathcarts, Fetters and Saylors on Monday evening resulted with a hearing at Squire H. H. Harshbergers on Tuesday evening. They say it was better than a cheap side show. The case was bound over to the August term of court when the fun will be repeated.

—J. H. Reifsnyder, of Millheim, who was stricken with apoplexy while attending to some business at Lock Haven and who has been in the hospital in that city for several weeks, was taken to his home in Millheim Tuesday afternoon. His condition is improved but he is not out of danger.

—Hollidaysburg had a sensation Monday, but it died before getting very great. A story went afloat that a suicide had been discovered on Chimney Rocks. Field glasses were leveled at the big pulpit rock and the inanimate form of a man was seen apparently suspended half-way down the side of the great bowlder. An investigation developed the fact that the cause of all the uproar was a newspaper that had blown off Pulpit Rocks and found lodgment on a small tree on the side facing the town.

—On Sunday afternoon June 19th a heavy rain and wind storm with hail passed over Pine Grove Mills. At Grayeville hail fell as large as walnuts. Fresh planted fields and newly made roads suffered with washouts. A bolt of lightning struck Frank Bowersox' house on Main street. It entered at the corner of the porch passing down the inside wall to the stove, tearing the oil cloth to shreds and throwing the griddles off the stove. Mr. Bowersox was in an adjoining room and got a shaking up. The "women folks" were out looking after the young poultry at the time.

—Visitors to the St. Louis Exposition will want the July Woman's Home Companion because it is such an interesting souvenir of the Fair. Frederick Smith tells of "A Little Journey Round the St. Louis Fair" and about adventures on The Pike, while Arthur Hoyt describes the opening day. A feature of especial timeliness in "Celebrating the Fourth of July in Uncle Sam's New Possessions." The pictorial features are the "Wash-Day of All Nations" and "Sports on an Ocean-Liner." The editors announce that Margaret E. Sangster, so dear to the hearts of all American girls, will henceforth conduct a department for women in the Woman's Home Companion. There is plenty of lively midsummer fiction, and many of Miss Gould's excellent fashion suggestions. Published by The Crowell Publishing Company, Springfield, Ohio; one dollar a year! ten cents a copy.

—Levi Dyer, who sent a bullet into the lung of Goldie Beck with the intention of killing her, was sentenced by Judge Bell to pay $100 fine, the costs and serve seven years in solitary confinement at the western penitentiary. The lawyers for the commonwealth stated to the court that Dyer is a bad man, and his attorneys plead for mercy on the ground that the man was under influence of liquor and drugs at the time he did the shooting, and that he had been aggravated by the ill tongue of Goldie. Judge Bell said: "There has been an alarming frequency of shooting and stabbing affairs in Altoona. The escapades of the victims of these murderous assaults are little short of remarkable. If that girl had died nothing could be urged in your behalf to save you from the gallows. A sentence ought to be meted out to you, to deter others from like crimes. Your moral guilt is just as great as if that girl had died. You had the intent to murder in your heart."

Tariff Hand Book.

Inasmuch as it is settled that the Tariff is to be the predominant issue in the Presidential campaign of 1904, the Tariff Hand Book, just issued by the American Protective Tariff League, becomes of special value. An equal amount of matter relating to the Tariff in its various phases has never been incorporated between the covers of any single volume. There is no question that the Free-Trade can possibly raise which is not answered in this handy book of ninety-six pages. Every fact bearing upon the Tariff and its relation to national and individual prosperity is herein to be found. Statistics covering almost every field of industrial, commercial and business activity are here presented in well ordered form, all of them authentic, official and indisputable. As an aid to writers and speakers in the current campaign, as well as to students desirous of informing themselves regard-economic facts and conclusions, the Tariff Hand Book will be found indispensable. Price, 25 cents. American Protective Tariff League, 339 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for anycase of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Fountain Head of Three Streams.

On the same farm in Potter county are two strong, clear springs which bubble up out of the white sand with great force, and about three miles distance is another spring of like character. If chips were thrown into each of these and could float uninterruptedly to the sea they would reach their destination many thousands of miles apart. One is the fountain head of the Genessee river, which flows into Lake Ontario, and finally reaches the sea at the mouth of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The other is the fountain head of the Allegheny river, which unites at Pittsburg with the Monongahela to form the Ohio, and reaches the sea at the mouth of the Mississippi. The third is the fountain head of Pine Creek, which flows into the west branch of the Susquehanna and reaches the sea at Chesapeake bay.

Improvements at the Academy.

Mr. Jas. R. Hughes is already making interesting improvements at the Academy for the coming years work. Having secured two extra teachers to further Bible instruction and provide rare musical facilities for this community, he is now beautifying the Primary room with new paper and likewise fitting up Prof. Meyer's room in most attractive style. Tuesday he received from Washington a very beautiful animal and nature study chart for instruction in the Primary and Intermediate departments. It contains 48 pages of pictures in richest colors illustrating bird life, fish life, animals, insects, flowers, plants, shells &c.

Indications point to a large school next fall. We wish the Academy the very best success.

Three Aged Sisters.

Jamison's Child Dead.

A pathetic sequel to the murder of Constable Deeghan, of Renovo, while attempting to effect the arrest of Sherman Jamison at Glen Hazel several months ago, is the death of Jamison's 18-month-old baby.

Jamison was very fond of the child, and the authorities are on the alert in the hope that if word of the death reaches Jamison he will come out of hiding and endeavor to get home.
